Representing fiduciaries presents unique ethical challenges that can lead to disputes, liability, and professional risk. This seminar will explore common ethical landmines and provide practical guidance for avoiding pitfalls while effectively serving fiduciary clients.

This seminar is approved for California Minimum Continuing Education (MCLE) credit in the amount of 1.0 credit hour, including 1 credit hour of ethics credit and 1 hour of CCLS credit.

About the Speaker:

Leslie Kalim McHugh

Leslie maintains a mostly transactional practice focused on estate planning, trust administration, and probate estate administration for individuals and professional fiduciaries. She also assists clients with business succession planning and real estate matters.

Throughout her career, Leslie has handled a broad range of complex corporate and real estate transactions, representing both large businesses and closely held family-owned enterprises.
